

The Real Story of China's Jiang Zemin

... his biological father was a traitor who worked for the japanese during their occupation of china. the university jiang attended, nanjing central university, was in fact run by the japanese occupation. he made up the lie that his uncle had adopted him, even though his uncle was actually deceased by that time. while in russia for training, jiang at one point indulged in an affair with a russian woman and became a spy for the kgb. and this is only a small part of a much larger picture, for jiang's is a history full of ugly details. when the "rebel faction" examined jiang's dossier they could not have known the tremendous troubles of jiang's past that were being hidden....

Link to read: The real story of Jiang Zemin