

Nothing could more demonstrate the way the Australian government grovels to Beijing than their recent attempt to reject former Taiwan Vice President, Annette Lu's, visa application to enter the country to make a speech, today actually, at the Queensland Taiwan Centre.

The Chinese Communist Party (CCP) doesn't like her so the Australian Government wouldn't let her in. Thankfully the visa has now been granted. But the Beijing regime has now more influence over the Australian Government than any other Government bar the US Government.

We saw how when the Olympic Torch was carried through Australian cities on its way to the Beijing Olympics, the Beijing regime organized its own gang of blue-shirted bully boy security guards to protect the torch carriers from protesters. The so-called Confucius Institutes organized by the CCP are being allowed into Australian schools, to brainwash students with their whitewashed version of recent Chinese history.

Great admirer of Mao

But unfortunately our Prime Minister, Malcolm Turnbull, is a great admirer of the war criminal and dictator, Mao, and of modern Chinese expansionism.

In a speech to the London School of Economics on 5th October 2011 called "Same Bed Different Dreams" about Australia's position in Asia, still on his website, so he must be proud of it, all his references to China are of grovelling admiration for the Chinese Communist Party.

There is not one reference to the oppression, the forced labour, the forced abortions and sterilizations that constitute the one child policy, the killing on demand of political prisoners of conscience to cut out their organs for sale, the Tiananmen Square Massacre, Christians being imprisoned and churches being bulldozed, or Tibet.

In fact the whole speech is full of gross misconceptions about China that are unfortunately shared by most Western politicians.

He said in this speech: "The world may be amazed by China's dramatic rise, but the Chinese recognise this as very much a return to the natural order of things.....China sees itself as a 3000-year culture".

Well all that's wrong. In fact, the Chinese Communist Party has done its best to destroy all vestiges of 3000 year old traditional Chinese culture and to substitute the rigid dogma of Marxism-Leninism-Maoism.

He further said "While elegantly clad Chinese businessmen.... may appear to have little in common with Mao's boiler suited revolutionaries, the economic success of modern China, whether manifested in gleaming new cities, fast trains and freeways, or in tanks and stealth fighter jets, is the fulfilment of Mao's proud boast in 1949 from the top of Tien An Men. 'The Chinese people have stood up.'"

Wrong again. The Chinese people have not stood up. They are oppressed. The vast majority live in poverty. They live under the jackboot of the CCP. The only thing that has stood up is that renegade bandit gang of freaks and monsters called the CCP. And China is not a land of gleaming new cities, fast trains and freeways, it is a land of polluted cities, slave labour, second rate and often dangerous manufactured products, contaminated food, glaring divisions between rich and poor, and rampant corruption.

He then says ".....the dominance of the Party depends on a social contract – you the people let us run the country, and we the Party will deliver rising living standards. ... as the Governor of Liaoning once observed to me, 'Just because the majority of the people want to do something, doesn't mean it's right.'"

CCP attends Australian Liberal Party Conferences

Malcolm Turnbull, I say to you, a contract is an agreement entered into voluntarily by both parties. A military dictatorship imposed by force, which is what the Communist Party rule is, is not a contract.

To top it all he says “The Communist Party of China presents as a modern political party. Indeed they have sent official delegations to our Liberal Party conferences in Australia.”

Well, Isn't that nice, not only have they been given the strategic port of Darwin, the perpetrators of the Tiananmen Square Massacre and organ harvesting get to attend conferences of the Liberal Party of Australia!

Maybe we should label Malcolm Turnbull “The Manchurian Candidate”.

While Chinese billionaires, with bank accounts registered in the Virgin islands launder the ill-gotten gains they have made exploiting slave labour, buy up Australian farms and 20 million dollar mansions in the Eastern Suburbs, probably right next door to Malcolm Turnbull, the gulf between rich and poor in China is now much greater than it was before 1949.

Freedom means speaking out

If our Federal Parliament really stood for freedom, they would speak out constantly against repression in China, they would pause once a year to commemorate the Tiananmen Square Massacre of 3,000 people, they would fly the Tibetan flag on Tibetan Uprising day.

Instead, when the Chinese President visited Canberra last year to sign the free trade deal, communist flags festooned the drive up to Parliament House. Apart from a few who speak out like the ALP member for Melbourne Ports, Michael Danby, ex-DLP Senator John Madigan, and The Greens Party, I charge nearly all our Federal MPs with being holocaust deniers of the Chinese holocaust.

We hear, we musn't criticize China, because China is important to the Australian economy. Well, I don't care about the economy. The economy doesn't care about me, so why should I care about the economy? But in real terms politics has got very little to do with trade.

Taiwan and Beijing hate each other, but economically they live in each other's pockets. Chinese companies buy Australia raw materials

Australian P.M. - The Manchurian Candidate?

Bob Vinnicombe

because they need them. not because of cordial sentiments expressed about them by Australian politicians.

We hear, "You can't tell another Government how to run their country". Well, why not? We told the Taliban how to run their country. We told Saddam Hussein how to run his country. We are telling the Assad regime how to run their country, though neither the Saddam Hussein regime and the Assad regime bulldozed Christian Churches, in fact under Saddam Hussein and Assad, the Christians never had it so good.

A federal election is coming soon and I strongly urge all of you to make contact with your local candidates, confront them, and make relations with China the main issue in the election.

Tell them about the organ harvesting and the Lao Gai forced labour camps, and the other atrocities of the Beijing regime, which will be, in many cases, an eye-opener to them, and ask them if elected to parliament will they support a law making it a criminal offence to receive an illegally harvested organ, and will they use their position to expose the human rights abuses of the Beijing regime.

Long live free China.

This was a speech given by Bob Vinnicombe at a Falun Gong rally in Sydney on 7th April 2016, to call upon the upcoming trade delegation to China, to raise human rights issues with the communist regime.