

(Flag of Xi' by Badiuca)

Badiuca, a dissident Chinese-Australian cartoonist was born in Shanghai and studied law in China before moving to Australia, where he has lived in exile for the last 10 years.

Wearing masks and cross-dressing during public appearances, he has gone to extreme lengths to conceal his identity, fearing reprisals from China's government over his work, which regularly mocks and criticizes Xi Jinping and his regime's authoritarian policies.

On the eve of the 30th anniversary of the Tiananmen Square Massacre, Badiuca revealed his face in a documentary broadcast on the ABC (Australian Broadcasting Commission) titled China's Artful Dissident.

5th round of Regime Meetings Spelled a Big Victory for the Chinese Communist Party

The cartoon is a reference to the Chinese phrase "Can you still do shopping for Google, huh?" on words about Google, based on a Chinese phrase

(Soft power in Australia)

